Rioters Storm Phila. City Hall

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28 (AP)—Striking General Electric workers and sympathizers, driven from the streets around the plant in a free-for-all battle with police, marched on City Hall today, virtually halting traffic while they demanded an audience with Mayor Bernard Samuel.

After an hour-long parade around City Hall, during which blocked street cars ringed the building almost solidly for 20 minutes, a union sound truck announced that union delegates had gone into conference in the mayor's office and asked the crowd to stand by.

Police estimated the paraders numbered 3000 to 5000. They were led by CIO-Electrical Workers Union leaders who sought to protest to the mayor what they termed "police brutality."

The flareup at the General Electric plant, one of the most violent in postwar labor troubles, resulted in injuries to a score or more and arrest of 35 on inciting to riot charges.

Three thousand marchers broke through police lines three blocks from the plant, bowling over six officers on motorcycles before 18 mounted policemen rode into their ranks and routed the men and women in the parade. The estimated number of injured ranged as high as 20.

A score of persons were arrested and held for questioning. Among them was Francis White, regional organizer of the CIO.

It was second straight day in which CIO-Electrical Workers and sympathizers fought police enforcing an injunction prohibiting mass picketing at GE.

Acting Sheriff William J. Morrow declared he had ordered police to break up all gatherings of workers within a six-block radius of the plant, strikebound since Jan. 15.

Skirmishes between police and the marchers flared throughout the southwest Philadelphia area for a half-hour before Morrow reported the situation under control.

The marchers then began a 55-block trek to City Hall. More than 1000 persons, led by a flag-bearer, reached city hall shortly after noon. Hundreds of policemen, carrying nightsticks, stood guard but made no effort to halt the parade.

Philadelphians jammed into the central city plaza surrounding the historical municipal building to watch the marchers. Traffic quickly was snarled.

Shouting, jostling men and women milled about the streets for more than an hour, unmindful of near-freezing temperatures.

A sound truck was set up as a mass meeting began at 1:15 p. m. Speakers urged an "all-out fight against police brutality" and demanded that "the city administration be driven from office."

Gov. Edward Martin said Pennsylvania State Police and the Pennsylvania State Guard are available to maintain order if requested.

In the early morning hours, the 575 police on duty in the area scattered all groups of pickets and took two persons into custody for questioning.

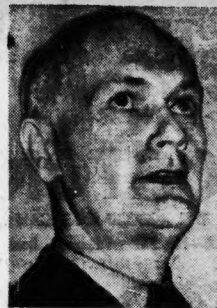

GE Union Leaders Call Lynn Meeting

Possibility of a break or turning point in the 38-day-old walkout of Lynn General Electric Co. workers was seen today in the summoning of an emergency meeting of union leaders tomorrow at their headquarters in South Common st.

Others, however, believed the meeting may have been called to discuss action planned by GE strikers in Cleveland, who have called for mass picketing of their plants beginning next week, despite court orders.

Gen. Kells New Director of Port

Maj. Gen. Clarence H. Kells, former director of the Boston Port of Embarkation and now holding a similar post in New York, will be named next week as director of the Boston Port Authority, it was learned today.

The position carries life tenure and pays $15,000 a year. It was learned Kells would be named to the post next Tuesday after Judge James R. Nolan, member of the Port Authority, had declined to identify the new director publicly when he appeared before the legislative ways and means committee to discuss the Port Authority's budget recommendations.

Nolan did disclose, however, that the Army probably would release its installations at Castle Island and the South Boston Army Base to the city either today or tomorrow and that the city would take them over officially the first of next week.

He said an additional engineering staff would be needed for operation of the two installations and that they would furnish the city with $300,000 annual income. He also advocated the need of Port of Boston solicitors in New York and Chicago to bring business here and said eventually such solicitors would be needed in many other cities.

Andrew Lane, general manager of the former Boston Port Authority, is at present holding the post Kells will take next week. It is expected Lane will be named assistant director at a $10,000 salary.

Gen Kells rose to his present rank in the Army the hard way, starting as an enlisted man in 1915.

In 1939, as a major, he was placed in charge of the Army's ocean shipping service, an organization which developed into the huge Army transport service of the war.

He was a colonel in 1941 when he came to Boston to take charge of the port of embarkation and was instrumental while here in obtaining government development of Castle Island as a tide-water terminal. He was promoted to brigadier general in February, 1942, and the following October went to New York as port of embarkation director.

Marble Trap

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28 (AP)—Police reported they found more than 800 marbles—the kind boys play with—at the scene of their skirmish with General Electric pickets today.

Officers expressed belief the marbles were scattered on the street so that horses ridden by police would skid and fall. Several horses fell but none was injured.

Mobs Break Into Franco Consulates

PARIS, Feb. 28 (AP)—The French News Agency said a crowd of nearly 5000 occupied the Spanish consulate at Sete, on the Mediterranean, in an anti-Franco demonstration today and raised the Spanish Republican flag over the building. Another crowd at Auch, in the Pyrenees, broke into the Spanish consulate and caused considerable damage, it was reported.

In Paris, Jose Giral, premier of the Spanish Republican government in exile, declared in a statement that his government was ready to go to Spain and take over from Franco. However, his government lacks the formal support of Britain, France and the United States.

French Approve U. S. Proposal on Spain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—The State Department was notified informally today that France has accepted in principle the United States proposal for the issuance of a three-power manifesto denouncing the Franco regime.

Lord Halifax, British ambassador, conferred with Secretary Byrnes but told reporters his government had not yet replied to the American proposal.

Ambassador Jefferson Caffery said the French government was reported "greatly pleased."

When action is taken it will be done jointly in London, Paris and Washington.

Foreign diplomatic observers said earlier that the issuance of a "white paper" indicting the Franco regime was contemplated in the three-power move aimed ultimately at setting up an interim regime pending the holding of democratic elections in that country.

The U. S. note, dispatched to France and Britain on Feb. 21, proposed:

1—The U. S. will issue a white paper—similar to the "blue book" issued recently against Argentina—which would unfold secret data discovered in Germany on Spain's role during the war.

2—Britain and France would join in a three-power declaration denouncing these activities.

3—The three powers would support a liberal representative government to take over in Spain pending the holding of democratic elections.

It was not made clear what disposition would be made of Franco.

Bus Trip Clue To Missing Girl, 4, Nurse

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 28 (INS)—Police said today the search for 4-year-old Terry Taylor, who disappeared Tuesday with her nurse, Rose Mary Johnson, 20, had led them to Winston-Salem, N. C.

S. L. Hinkle, a bus driver, said a girl and child boarded his bus there and left it in Richmond, Va. On the trip they talked with an elderly man and woman about a trip to Massachusetts, Hinkle said.

Mrs. Andrew Taylor, the child's mother, said she was still hopeful of her baby's return. Dr. Taylor is attending a medical refresher course in Virginia.

Police said a small New Testament had been found in the maid's purse in the Taylor home.

Miss Johnson's handwriting was found between the 18th and 19th verses of the 10th chapter of First Corinthians. He said the words between the verses were "Danville and R."

The Bible verses are: "Behold Israel after the flesh; are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar?"

"What say I then? That the idol is anything, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing."

Bowles Would Force GM Pact

DETROIT, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Detroit News in a copyrighted dispatch today from Washington says Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles has recommended to President Truman that he call top officials of General Motors and the CIO United Auto Workers to Washington to end the strike.

The recommendation was that the President put the negotiators "in a room and tell them not to come out until they reach an agreement that will end the strike."

MRS. MARTHA SPITALERI
Bride Held in Bank Theft

Bank Theft Bride Bailed By Vet's Pa

Sgt. Louis Spitaleri of Pawtucket, who was released from the Army at Ft. Devens yesterday and hastened here to meet his bride of two months—only to find she was in federal custody for allegedly stealing $4000 from her Dublin, Ga., home town bank—threw his arms around her at the East Cambridge jail today and said, "I'll have you out of here in a few minutes."

It was a promise the sergeant found he could not carry out to the letter, although he strove mightily. He knew his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Spitaleri, were waiting for him at the U. S. marshal's office, ready to put up $15,000 worth of real estate, if necessary, to meet the $5000 bail.

But it turned out to be Rhode Island real estate and so not acceptable in this federal district. Spitaleri, Sr., said if he had known the facts he would have brought cash. He said he could go back to Pawtucket and raise the cash quickly, but then his daughter-in-law could not be freed today.

He contacted two professional bondsmen, who posted $5000 in cash and the southern girl was released in mid-afternoon to be embraced and spirited away by her new family.

The younger Spitaleri arrived at the jail early this morning with a pass from the marshal. He spent half an hour in a reception room with his blonde, 21-year-old wife.

"I'm all mixed up," the young veteran said as he left for the federal building to join his parents. "Everything is going around in circles. But it is going to be all right. Restitution has been made."

"No harm has been done to anyone but ourselves," he added. "It was just one of those things."

He declined to say whether his parents or his bride had made restitution.

After greeting his parents at the federal building, he said:

"The only way I can explain

it is that she was upset emotionally at the idea of leaving home. She had never been away from Georgia. She was wondering if she would be homesick and if people up here would like her. Why, the minute she got aboard the train she realized what she had done. Then she was frightened and dazed. She didn't know what to do.

"Why," he exclaimed, "she had never been involved in any kind of trouble before. And she had worked for the bank as a teller. When she left its employ the president sent her a letter telling her what a valuable employee she had been. Her fellow workers were fond of her. Her classmates in college were fond of her. She just isn't the kind of girl who steals."

Spitaleri's father, waiting to go before U. S. Comm. William C. Rogers to arrange the bail, spoke up:

"I can't understand it. She is a beautiful girl, a lovely girl. Her parents are well connected. They are wealthy. And we ourselves are financially well off. She never wanted for money. She could get all she needed at home."

The elder Spitaleri, whose home is in Columbus ave., Pawtucket, is an insurance agent.

FBI agents, who arrested her at a hotel yesterday, said she had $3800 in her possession. They quoted her as saying she had snatched the money "on impulse" while visiting bank employees with whom she had worked.

Her soldier husband received a shock when he arrived at the hotel to meet her. When he called for the key, a room clerk handed him a note from the FBI, telling him of her arrest, the reason for it and of her detention in East Cambridge.

Spitaleri spent a frantic afternoon and evening trying to see her. Then he communicated with his father and mother, who told him they would be standing by this morning.

MRS. CLIFFORD S. BOWMAN and her daughter, Janet, 8 months old, will be residents of this State when they arrive from England aboard the S. S. Erickson and join husband and father, ex-serviceman Clifford Bowman of East Braintree. Dad, who met and married his wife in Coventry, England, has never seen Janet.

Felon-Constable Ousted From Maritime Service

Frank J. Moriarty, whose appointment as a Boston constable was withdrawn by Mayor Curley after disclosure he was on parole from State Prison, was found today to be under six-month suspension from the U. S. Maritime Service for misconduct aboard ship during a voyage here from England.

The six-month suspension was imposed Feb. 3 after hearing had been held on four specifications of misconduct and a finding of guilty returned by a Coast Guard trial board.

Moriarty, alias "Turkey" Joyce, had been paroled from State Prison in 1944 to enter the Merchant Marine after he had served 12 years of accumulated sentences for a series of armed robberies and for escapes from Norfolk prison colony in 1933 and State Prison in 1935.

The charges of misconduct were brought against Moriarty by Capt. Syvert Ravnemark, master of the S. S. Wallace M. Tyler, after the ship arrived in the United States from England.

The four specifications, occurring on different dates, alleged that Moriarty had used abusive and obscene language against the captain; twice failed to turn to (work) and used threatening language.

Under customary procedure, the case was assigned to a hearing board after the complaint had been checked by an investigating officer.

Mayor Curley, after the disclosure Moriarty was on parole from State Prison, announced he had withdrawn the appointment, as a constable, which was confirmed by the City Council Feb. 18.

Curley said the withdrawal had been made at the request of Moriarty's brother, City Councilor William A. Moriarty, of Roxbury, who had proposed his name originally for one of the 16 new constable posts, which pay $1800 annually.

Ward Repeats Blast on Weather Peril to Pupils

For the second successive day, School Committee Chairman Michael J. Ward took school department officials to task for not suspending all classes as a safeguard against injury to children whose way to school was a dangerously glazed underfooting.

"Conditions this morning were even worse than yesterday," Ward asserted.

Ward, who yesterday declared he would make an issue of school department policy regarding storm conditions, said today he would propose at the school committee meeting Tuesday the establishment of an advisory board with which Supt. Arthur L. Gould could confer.

He said he would suggest Dr. James A. Keenan, chief school physician, and Edward Wall, health and safety officer of the school department.

Informed of this development, Gould said, "I shall be very glad to work with any advisory board the committee appoints."

New So. Boston Housing Planned

Plans for a third housing project in South Boston with 972 apartments have been approved by the State board of housing. Chairman Philip Nichols declared today during a budget hearing before the ways and means committee of the Legislature.

Rep. John E. Powers of South Boston, a member of the committee, urged Nichols to expedite the matter so construction could be started, saying there were about 60,000 applications for apartments filed with the Boston Housing Authority.

He said the area bounded by West Broadway, B. D. and West Seventh sts., was available for the project.

Lake on Way To German War Trials

By AUSTEN LAKE

Boston American Staff Writer

PARIS, Feb. 28.—En route to Nuernberg, Germany, for a seven-day attendance at the Nazi war trials, I find travel in Europe one of the uncertain hazards of the postwar period.

Austen Lake

I am lucky to get from Rome to Paris in reasonable promptitude, after sitting for 12 hours in constant vigil at Ciampino Airport, Rome, awaiting planes which mostly never come. It is a matter of patience vs. frustration. Finally a four-motor transport, four days overdue, comes out of a low ceiling from Cairo. One passenger to Paris "no show up." Whoopee! I get the space.

This is a great satisfaction also, because we have an experienced commercial pilot and crew, instead of green kids flying an Army transport under hazardous conditions over the Alps, where the mortality rate is high. The only sure departures were members of Cardinal Spellman's party, who previously chartered planes. The rest are displaced persons who battle officials, bribe and connive to get the few reservations on three-times-weekly trains, and maybe two or three planes. Some will wait for two weeks.

This is not the Army method I knew during the war, when mass transport equipment and competent, obliging officers and men gave intelligent, quick service. Now we have disgruntled kids, recent arrivals from U.S.A., who don't give a tinker's cuss, or long-termers who don't give a cuss either. Many of the key personnel of both the UNRRA and the Army are non-civilian speaking broken English, and some are susceptible to greased palms. Bribery and black marketing are the chief enterprises of official Italy.

The generosity of Cardinal Spellman caused some embarrassment, because he invited many of the stranded clergy to join his party to get out of Italy for home. Example: he tried to include some German, Polish and Hungarian cardinals to make the return trip on his plane, through the occupied territory, as a detour to Spain, without considering that it is impossible for a commercial TWA plane to land in Germany.

Cardinal Spellman has a good heart, and wants to make people happy, but the complex politics of Europe has no good heart and is not making many people happy. This writer is now under the Army again, from Paris onward, where things begin to click again as they should in the Army. This morning I reported to a command center near the Arc de Triomphe, where a captain gave me travel orders to Germany in two hours—a world record for cutting red tape.

So I take the 5:30 p. m. train on my overnight way to Frankfurt, thence a four-hour jeep ride to Nuernberg.

The only thing that made the America-to-Rome trip possible was Cardinal Spellman's fine management and ability to get things done.

I came away from Rome with the firm conviction that I will be accepted by all Europe as the Pope's first spokesman on foreign affairs.

MR. AND MRS. FROILAN CISNEROS IN HAPPY KISS
Parolee-Bride Wins Victory Over Board, Free to Leave State
INP by Bruce McLean

GI Bride in Victory Over Parole Board

A pretty bride of a year, Mrs. Evelyn Boyd Cisneros, 34, of Poplar st., Chelsea, today won a victory over the Massachusetts Parole Board in Suffolk Superior Court and departed for California with the blessing of Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr.

Mrs. Cisneros, bride of ex-Pvt. Froilan Cisneros, was released as a defective delinquent by the court, with approval of the Attorney-General. Grinning her joy, she ran to her husband's arms, explaining, "Isn't it wonderful? Now we can go out West to your folks."

The petitioner told her story in a hushed courtroom. She said she had been sent to Belchertown State School when a youngster. There, she said, she had been beaten by a doctor when she was only 15, adding that she defended herself with a knitting needle when he wouldn't stop.

For this she was sent to Bridgewater, being paroled in 1936, but forced to report to a probation officer every month. She was forbidden by law to leave the State. With her marriage, she wished to go to his home in Santa Anna, Cal., but the parole board turned her petition down. They decided she wouldn't be happy in married life and should remain here.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Conde J. Brodine appeared for the Attorney-General's office, saying, "This is an abuse of discretion. The parole board has gone too far."

Housing Plan Loses in Test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Administration lost today the first test on its housing legislation, as the House voted, 145 to 88, to terminate June 30, 1947, any emergency power it may grant for the production of more houses.

The vote came in the face of a declaration by House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts that "the most powerful lobby in my time is working against a workable housing bill—against the best interest of the veteran."

These Days Betrayal of China

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN THE TREATY of Versailles was made known to the Chinese people, they went on strike. The entire nation went on strike. Everything was closed down, except food shops, in every city of China.

Even the sing-song houses closed down, but not the newspapers, for those who managed the strike wanted the people to know what was going on.

It was called the Students' Strike, because its effective leadership were boys and girls in high schools and colleges.

The treaty of Versailles was never signed by China. As much, if not more, because of the Shantung treachery in that treaty as opposition to the League of Nations, the United States never ratified the Treaty of Versailles.

This nation, back in the days of Warren Harding, would not stoop to political immortalities of its representatives at peace conferences.

The American people refused to betray an ally, agree to the theft of territory, destroy its territorial and administrative integrity, and sanctimoniously elocute on world peace.

The Japanese eventually got out of Shantung and they did it not because China possessed powerful armies but because the Chinese people would not tolerate its territory being governed by foreigners.

NO MATTER what the Chinese government chose to do, the Chinese people boycotted Japanese goods, embarrassed Japanese living in China, conducted a smart propaganda against Japan in the United States, Great Britain, the Philippines and Malay States.

Russia is following in Japan's footsteps in China. And again the students of the country have risen in their wrath to lead the Chinese people against treachery. This time, it is again the United States which has betrayed China. The territory is not Shantung but Manchuria. The negotiator was not Woodrow Wilson but Franklin D. Roosevelt. The place was not Paris but Yalta.

Again, the United States agreed to betray one ally in the interest of another. Again, the United States accepted the task of convincing the Chinese government to betray the Chinese people.

There is, however, one difference: Woodrow Wilson arranged a treaty and brought it before the Senate for ratification as the Constitution and orderly government provide. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman have performed in secret. Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam and Moscow were secret meetings at which the three superpowers of mankind spoke only to each other and issued public statements which time has proved to be in some respects inadequate and incomplete and in other respects false.

Secret diplomacy not only violates decency but the law of the land.

MR. BYRNES, as Secretary of State, could have and should have rectified these errors of omission and commission, but he has failed to meet his responsibilities with candor or even understanding. He has apparently walked the primrose path of his predecessors, depending upon shortness of memory, the course of events and faiths accomplish to pull him out of a hole.

Precisely that has happened as regards Poland. The robbery of the Poles has now become sanctified by general acceptance and nobody worries about what happens to the Poles, the Ukrainians, the Ruthenians, the Galicians, the Jews—the millions of the oppressed and displaced, the hungry, the homeless, the dying. They, like the Chinese, once put their faith in the "liberalism" of Roosevelt, the "Four Freedoms," the "Atlantic Charter" and the rhetoric that flowed so lightly and so blithely out of Washington over the ether that all men might listen and believe. They now know that it was all lies. Just political lies that fit a moment—to be betrayed whenever that too fitted a moment.

THE DIFFERENCE between the Chinese and the Poles is that the longer history of Cathay has taught its people not to believe the bearers of alien words. China has so often been deceived and even swindled that when a Western power acts with some respect for morals, the Celestials are astonished.

This time, they are not astonished. We have permitted our politicians to act true to form, Manchuria, over which China and Japan fought since 1894, has now been given to Russia by the United States—that is, by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Jimmy Byrnes.

The Chinese people will rise against theft; will the American people suffer dishonor complacently?

Lobbyists' Foe Charges Tracks Used Slush Fund

A charge that money has been used to influence certain Legislators and that an attorney last year received $100,000 from a race track which, in his opinion, went to members of the Legislature Cornelius Desmond, Jr., Lowell Democrat.

Desmond appeared before the committee to urge approval of his bill, which would bar lobbyists from the State House during legislative sessions.

"The state lost nearly $1,000,000 last year," Desmond said, "when a bill which would have increased its revenue from horse and dog tracks was killed in the early morning hours before the Legislature prorogued."

"I can name no names and I can't make a direct charge, but as near as I can say, men do, by the use of money, influence the acts of certain legislators."

"There was an attorney last year who got $100,000 from a racing association and thereby established some sort of a lawyer-client relationship. But the truth is that he never retained that money and his income tax return shows it."

"From this I make the simple deduction that the money went to other persons. And where but to legislators who were considering a measure which would increase the state's revenue from race tracks?"

"The measure passed in the House and remained before the Senate ways and means committee without any action. Finally, at 2 a. m. on the day of prorogation, the bill was reported 'Ought Not to Pass' with only four Senators present."

"Nearly $1,000,000 lost to the Commonwealth, and only four Senators there when it happened."

Desmond declared he had no enmity against any particular lobbyist or any particular interest represented by a lobby.

"I think the influence of some power and insurance companies and small loan interests is just as sinister as the influence of the race tracks," he told the committee.

"I have no objection to the responsible man who appears before a legislative committee and presents his views. I'm not hitting at him."

"There's nothing wrong, either, in a man who owns a track trying to protect his interests."

"I'm much more inclined to despise the men who are sent here to represent the public who permit themselves to be influenced by money."

Union Threatens Peabody Tieup In Hauling Row

Peabody officials were threatened with far-reaching retaliatory measures today if they persist in attempting to enforce a recently-passed ordinance prohibiting passage of gravel trucks loaded in excess of 8000 pounds.

The threat was given by John J. DelMonte, business agent of Local 379 Teamsters' Union, AFL, after he had asked the State board of arbitration to help in a peaceful settlement.

"There are 100 GL's hauling gravel from Peabody pits and unless the mayor stops harrassing them these boys will have to go out of business."

"If they still insist on only 8000 pounds, we will oblige them further. We will see that no load is moved anywhere in Peabody by our drivers that has more than that poundage. Oil companies, food dealers, coal companies and many others would have to stop operating if we decide to crack down."

$2,200,000 Health Building Proposed

Construction of a $2,200,000 public health building was proposed today by Dr. Vlado A. Getting, state commissioner of public health.

Dr. Getting said the building would enable the department to consolidate under one roof instead of being scattered as it is now in 10 separate places.

Tells Court He Found Wife In Car Tryst With 'Mr. X'

When he spotted his long-stranded wife, Helen, 42, parked in a lonely Wenham road with a "Mr. X," he found them both in the back seat, the headlights out, James E. Mackey, 48, of Prospect st., Rockport, testified in Salem probate court today.

"They got out," he said, "and I said, 'You are two skunks.'" Mackey, charging desertion, is suing for a legal separation. His wife, now a resident of Gloucester,

7 Roxbury Boys Face Court as Torch Burglars

A teen-age Roxbury crime gang of seven youths ranging from 14 to 18, allegedly responsible for 30 burglaries and led by a boy who set fire to the scenes of five breaks, landed in Roxbury district and juvenile court there today to face the consequences.

Alfred E. Volz, 18, of Pratt st., alleged firebug "boss," was held in bail of $10,000 by Judge Samuel Eisenstadt. Volz pleaded guilty to firing the Criterion Theater, Roxbury Crossing, this week, with $20,000 damage. The gang had broken in, stealing $131 worth of property.

Volz pleaded guilty to the theater break and another at the Pilgrim Diner, Columbus ave., Roxbury, Dec. 14. He pleaded not guilty to breaking into the gasoline station of Joseph Foster in Columbus ave., Roxbury.

Donald R. Cobb, also 18, of Weston st., was held in $3000 bail after pleading guilty to participation in the theater burglary. Their cases were continued to March 7.

The five other youths, younger, went before Judge Frankland W. L. Miles in a juvenile session, charged with delinquency. They were released for reappearance a week hence.

22 in Health Building Stricken by 'Q' Fever

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—An outbreak of "Q" fever, somewhat similar to virus pneumonia, has stricken 22 workers at the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md.

He admitted he had devoted approximately three months to trailing her recently, although they became estranged 10 years ago.

On one occasion, he said, his wife and Mr. X were "hugging and kissing" in X's car, parked in her driveway.

The case is continuing.

Army Wife Advises Berlin-Bound Girls

By ALICE BISSELL

An Army wife, veteran traveler over this country with her husband, is now Germany-bound and has a few helpful tips for other servicemen's wives planning to go abroad.

Today, Mrs. Mary Bannan Missal, 27, of Florence rd., Waltham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bannan of Lyman st., Waltham, had a phone call from her husband, Lt. Col. Joseph B. Missal, 30, now stationed in Frankfurt as executive officer to a general. He served over a year with the 75th Infantry Division.

He said he was coming home soon on leave, and hoped that when he returned to duty his whole family would go with him.

"First of all I'm going to buy two nice, strong harnesses to tote Joseph, 4, and Billy, 2, around. This has been advised especially for the boat trip where children will be running around the decks," she said.

"My husband has never seen 10-months-old Bobby, and he'll be so busy getting acquainted that I hope he'll enjoy watching out for him on the trip," she continued.

The family of a lieutenant colonel is allowed 9500 lbs. of shipping and Mrs. Missal is stopping at nothing. She's going to take a refrigerator, since her husband said they were scarce and novel over there.

"Me, I'm taking a bike and bear," interrupted young Joe.

The family has started taking shots for typhoid, tetanus, smallpox, whooping cough and diphtheria, as ordered for all people transported by the Army.

"I wonder also if wives know that all ships carrying families are landing in Bremen, thus avoiding the difficult traveling through France," Mrs. Missal said.

"At Bremen we will be given an orientation course before leaving by train for our various new homes. The course is designed to help us settle easily in a new land, also to educate us in prevention of disease."

HUB MILK AMPLE

Boston milk dealers now are receiving sufficient supplies from the Boston milkshed for the first time since last October, Federal Milk Market Administrator Samuel W. Tator announced today.

Food Fraud Laid To Oil Merchant

After a lengthy municipal court hearing, Lawrence Milgroom of Beacon st., Brookline, owner of the Mercantile Food Products Co. of Boston, was found guilty by Judge Charles L. Carr of selling an adulterated and misbranded product.

He appealed a $200 fine and was released on personal recognizance.

State Health Insp. Ernest C. Cloon said the product, labeled a non-fattening salad oil, was nothing but mineral oil with artificial coloring and was deleterious and injurious to health.

"If he wants to sell this product," Judge Carr said, "he had better put a big label on it saying, 'This is nothing but a laxative.'"

BANK OF ENGLAND SHIFT

LONDON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The 251-year-old Bank of England teased to exist today as a private institution. It will be nationalized tomorrow.

Oratory Test Call Issued by Curley

By BERT FORD

In a rally call to high school students throughout the city, Mayor Curley today urged enlistment in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest as an adthe battlefronts to help solve postwar problems of his day.

Headquarters of the contest will be in Boston, where Eastern Zone finals will take place April 24, and national finals May 2.

Calling upon all high school students to enter the contest, Mayor Curley said:

"The name of Andrew Jackson is a challenge and an inspiration to American youth. His service to his country has endured beyond his life. To our high school boys and girls it is not only a privilege but a patriotic duty to study the colorful career of this great American."

Joining with Mayor Curley, Rev. William J. Daly, diocesan superintendent of parochial schools, announced that students of 17 parochial high schools and three Catholic academies have enlisted in the contest, and that these schools have been notified by let-

Andrew Jackson

Andrew Jackson served in the U. S. Army for nine years, and during two wars. After he became President, he resented the phrase "military chieftain," which Henry Clay so frequently used in describing him. In Jackson's own words, he was merely a Tennessee farmer and lawyer and an instinctive fighter who, when his country was invaded, led his neighbors and fellow-citizens to its defense.

In performing this duty as a citizen, Jackson displayed military aptitudes which, both friends and foes agreed, amounted to genius. He was the equal of the world's greatest generals.

ter of the official rules and regulations.

"The fullest co-operation will be given by the parochial schools of Boston in this nationwide educational enterprise," Fr. Daly said. "Our young students will be aided by teachers in all history departments."

"Beginning next Monday, we will launch this contest, dedicated to a great American, and to the youth of America to whom Andrew Jackson is an inspiration and an example in true patriotism."

The oratorical contest is open to high school and college students in 13 key cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts. Awards in national and local contests will total $25,000 in Victory Bonds, prizes to be divided equally between both groups, and contests to be held separately.

In endorsement of this contest, Fr. Daly has been joined by two other leading clergymen of Boston. They are Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts and Protestant military vicar, and Rev. Dr. Joshua Loth Liebman, rabbi of Temple Israel.

Both Bishop Sherrill and Dr. Liebman have accepted vice-chairmanships on the local contest committee, along with Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of the Catholic archdiocese.

Dr. Liebman, a noted scholar and historian and a radio broadcaster of national renown, stated in accepting his vice chairmanship:

"The subject of this oratorical contest, 'Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States,' is of timely significance to the youth of our country, and particularly to the returned veterans who, like Andrew Jackson, fought for their nation during a period of grim emergency, and now face the even graver problem of a postwar world."

"Andrew Jackson returned from two wars as a great soldier and great general, but he lived to become one of the most constructive statesmen in American history."

CONTEST RULES

- 2—It must not exceed six minutes.

- 9—Winners of grand National prizes in past Hearst Oratorical Contests, and students who are related to any employee of the Hearst Newspapers are not eligible to compete.

May Proposes Draft to Nov. 15

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—Rep. May (D.) of Kentucky, chairman of the House military affairs committee, announced he will introduce next week a bill extending the draft to Nov. 15 and changing induction ages to cover men between 21 and 30.

May's bill would exempt fathers and youths 18 through 20. At present, men aged 18 to 26 are taken.

At the same time, May said there is no reason why 4-F's cannot be inducted now that the war is over.

May disclosed also that a vote by his committee on universal compulsory military training will be postponed, perhaps indefinitely, pending a decision on continuation of the Selective Service Act.

Barge Smashes Escort Carrier

The Navy escort carrier Petrof Bay has been damaged in a collision with a wooden Navy barge at the Navy Yard's South Boston annex.

Water poured through her cracked plates into the engine room necessitating use of pumps.

The Petrof Bay, one of 18 such carriers due to be decommissioned and tied up here, was docked near the wooden cargo barge YC 762 when the latter was struck by the oil barge BG 153.

The crash sent the barge into the side of the carrier, the wooden hull ripping through the carrier's waterline plates. A Navy board of inquiry will investigate.

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR SINUS SUFFERERS

In New England, about one out of five have a "germ" disease referred to as Sinus Trouble!

Nine out of ten so affected believe that because of absence of pain, it is merely Catarrh and needs no relief.

More bodily ailments can be traced to Sinus Trouble than to any other single malady.

Doctors claim that over 50% of Arthritis is caused by Sinus Trouble. The lining of the heart may become involved. The kidneys may be attacked. Deafness and middle ear infection are common, necessitating mastoid operations. Moreover, there is apt to be a general debility with a lack of vital energy, in addition to frequent head colds.

REMOVE THE CAUSE AND YOU REMOVE THE TROUBLE. We have records to prove that this can be done!

Treatments can be taken without discomfort, are moderately priced, and administered under a doctor's direction.

Littell Aiding Pauley Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (INS)—The Senate naval affairs committee was told today that Norman Littell, former assistant attorney general, was "helping to prepare these acts" to block confirmation of Edwin W. Pauley as Navy undersecretary.

John A. Smith, independent California oil operator, testified that Littell worked with him in preparing evidence on Pauley's oil activities in 1939. Sen. Tobey quickly confirmed that as leader in the fight against Pauley's nomination he had obtained Littell's help.

Littell was fired by President Roosevelt after the young Justice Department official had cowed with Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle.

Ill Boy Writes About Rusty

"Rusty" is the aptly named pet of 13-year-old Lawrence King of 256 Billings st., North Quincy, who has found that a dog is a great pal, especially when one is ill in bed.

Lawrence tells all about it in today's $5 prize winning letter in the Boston Record-American contest "Why I Love My Dog." This is the lad's letter:

"I'd like to tell you about my dog Rusty. There are many reasons why I love him. In the first place he is a tan cocker spaniel and everyone loves cockers. Rusty is very smart, too. He sings when the radio comes on, but just at the commercials—I mean the jingle kind of commercial songs. He also does a good job whenever the Star Spangled Banner is played.

"But the main reason I have such pleasure with Rusty is because he is willing to stay in the house with me. You see I have rheumatic fever and I must stay in bed for a long time. That doesn't make any difference to my dog. Since I'm sick he's contented to stay right by my bed. He doesn't seem to miss going out and romping like we used to.

"I can say truthfully that I never get lonely as long as I have Rusty. He'll have plenty of exercise as soon as I get well again."

All letters on the subject, "Why I Love My Dog," should be addressed to the Anti-Violence Editor, Boston Record-American, 6 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass. The contest is open to all, and those newspapers will award a $5 prize each day for the best letters.

Bridge Proceeds Will Aid—Youngsters like tiny months-old Mary Lou, one of the cute orphans in St. Mary's Infant Asylum and Lying-In Hospital in Dorchester, will be aided by proceeds of the Annual Green Bridge in the Coy-Plaza Hotel on Saturday, March 16. Proceeds are planned for essential equipment and for alterations now going at the hospital.

WISE POLICY

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S policy of encouragement and support for a limited program of Japanese industrial enterprise, including exports to natural markets, is a policy of great wisdom.

It is in striking contrast to the policy of stupid vindictiveness in Europe, where the Allied occupation after victory has been a matter of studied retribution against the entire enemy population, regardless of the degree of real war guilt or the extremity of postwar suffering.

General MacArthur's administration of the Japanese occupation has not been "soft" by any stretch of the imagination, but it has been JUST.

His punitive measures against war criminals, in fact, are more effective and more advanced than similar measures in Europe—but they are punishing ONLY the guilty, and they do not preclude assistance to the innocent.

In the matter of industrial recovery and and resumption of exports, for instance, it is not the policy of General MacArthur to permit Japan to revive her war industries or to resume her foreign trade on a scale that would renew her capacity to make war.

Japan was reduced to military impotence largely by the military genius and superb strategic skill of General MacArthur, and Japan will REMAIN militarily impotent as long as he has the responsibility and authority of administration.

But in the matter of self-sustenance for Japan, General MacArthur has recognized certain inescapable conditions that are as much in the American interest as the Japanese interest.

If the Japanese are to be expected to feed and clothe and house themselves, their peacetime economy must be permitted to function.

Otherwise they would be an unproductive and starving population in a permanently desolated and devastated land—as our defeated European enemies are proving to be under our continuing and stupid policy of occupation.

General MacArthur does not propose merely to permit limited industrial enterprise in Japan, but to ENFORCE it—and thus to compel the Japanese people to work and produce and support themselves.

Accordingly, he has wisely provided for the rehabilitation of Japanese industry at about one-fourth of its pre-war capacity, and for carefully supervised exportation of its products in exchange for raw materials essential to Japanese industry.

In this manner, Japan will avoid being a burden upon her conquerors—or upon their consciences.

This is one of the many good reasons the Japanese occupation under General MacArthur is universally acknowledged to be the most efficient and most humane administration of a defeated nation in the wake of the recent war—and probably in the history of all warfare.

Stupidity and vindictiveness on the part of the conquerors is the rule in Europe, and the seeds of new wars are sprouting.

URGENT APPEAL

THE RED CROSS, seeking money to continue its essential services at home and abroad, has asked the people of Greater Boston to contribute $1,901,150.

It is an urgent and necessary request. Although the firing has ceased and the smoke of battle cleared, the war is not over for millions of persons.

It is not over for the boys who face months, and possibly years of convalescence in hospitals.

It is not over for the nearly two million young soldiers still serving overseas.

It is not over for the veterans who vainly seek homes for their families.

It is not over for women and children in all the devastated countries and continents. Your Red Cross must carry on with unimpaired resources until V-M DAY—the Day of Victory Over Misery.

Your dollars given to the Red Cross now will bring that day nearer.

Give as generously as your financial circumstances permit.

ABOVE IS QUOTED in response to request for a poem to be used as part of a welcome for a returning soldier husband. . . . Enough nylon stockings are being made to supply every woman in the U. S. A. who needs a pair. Such is the statement of Roy E. Tiles, head of one of the nation's leading hosiery organizations. He says the reason more nylons are not put on sale by retail organizations is because the merchants are afraid riots, by eager and hysterical females, will wreck their establishments. A shameful state of affairs. I suggest all husbands among the readers instruct their wives to exercise greater self-control when buying hosiery. If your wife jears at this order call her attention to the "obey" in the marriage ceremony. The hosiery manufacturing executive aforementioned also says some selfish women are getting more than their rightful share of stockings, thus depriving many women of the pleasure of owning even one pair of nylons. That is, indeed, a shocking situation. It tends to undermine the faith of this department in the female sex. Mr. Tiles says if women would unselfishly follow a policy of voluntary rationing there is no reason why every female in the land could not at least one pair of nylons per month.

PORTRAYING SARAH: Both Bette Davis and Ingrid Bergman are reported eager to portray Sarah Bernhardt on the screen. This is an excess of ambition. Faithfully portraying Bernhardt calls for equal ability as an actress. This neither of the young women has. However, if scenes in which the star of the film was required to act as well as Bernhardt were minimized and the Divine Sarah's highly interesting private life was emphasized a very entertaining film might result. For this I would give Ingrid Bergman the call.

Bette Davis

KNITTING RECORD: Am

informed a Chicagoan who learned to knit only 11 months ago has since knitted 30 sweaters in her spare time. She handles all her own housework and takes complete charge of her four-year-old son. As we have no sweater knitting records in our files I can't judge the extent of this achievement. But it sounds unusual. Or can Brooklyn or California top it?

QUERY FROM CLIENT: Q. Another sailor and myself had a bet on the birthplace of Roy Rogers. I said it was Ohio. He said Wyoming. We called up Republic Pictures, the company to which Rogers is under contract and they said Wyoming. Now you say he was born in Cincinnati. How about this? Do you know more about the man than his employers? A. I still say Rogers was born in Cincinnati.

PASSING BY: Adele Springer, Auburn-haired New York lawyer, may be a candidate for president of the United States in 1952. This of having a red-haired woman for President. Be quite a break for Technicolor. At present Adele heads the women's division of the National Taxpayers' and Property Owners' Association. This group is trying to strongly organize the country's twenty-five million small taxpayers and property owners. . . . Carrie Munn, the writer, also well-known as an amateur dancer and socialite. Mrs. Munn, who is quite a smart looker and dresser, is a specialist in what's wrong with men, particularly husbands. Mrs. Munn recently deplored the fact that husbands often complain their wives spend too much for hats. She says in the long run the husbands spend most for their own hats. That is what I would like to see proven. Taking it hat for hat, I figure women spend from four to 14 times as much as men.

CHICAGOAN SAYS: "I have three daughters all airline stewardesses. The oldest one is with the Eastern and Faye and Maye, twins, are with the Chicago and Southern. What do you think of that?" I think it's wonderful. I will keep it in mind. If I ever travel on the same plane as one of these special service at meal times saying: "Listen, Faye (or Rosemary, or Maye), your mama is one of my readers. How about an extra piece of pie. And have you a cigar handy?"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN THESE living human documents remarked with appealing tenderness of late that organizers would be found in the GI publications, there were some who thought such could not be in the American Army and Navy.

Since then a record of factual and circumstantial matter has been offered of which today's piece is a supplement.

A special dispatch from Tokyo on Feb. 10 reported that 15 members of the editorial staff of the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes had protested to Gen. MacArthur because two of their editorial associates had been detached and ordered to Okinawa because of a "negative report on a loyalty check."

In stilted Army language that would seem to hint that the loyalty of the two soldiers had been impugned, and one of them placed exactly that interpretation on the phrase.

The soldiers were named in the dispatch as Sgt. Ken Pettus, managing editor of the paper and formerly a reporter in Tacoma, and Cpl. Bernard Rubin, a columnist, who formerly wrote for a publication of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union.

PETTUS is an uncommon name and no person named Ken Pettus is listed in the index of the Dies Committee. No Ken Pettus is mentioned.

The index does contain the names of Berta and Terry Pettus, both of Seattle.

Terry is named as editor and an incorporator and Berta as associate editor of the New World, of Seattle, published by the Free Press Publishing Co.

In a chapter called "Party and Party Line Publications," this congressional document says "throughout its existence in this country the Communist Party has made a specialty of propaganda through publications and periodicals." And the New World, of Seattle, is listed as one of them.

The index further says that on March 4, 1944, the Daily Worker, of New York, which is frankly Communist, gave an enthusiastic account of a meeting in Seattle arranged by the American Committee for Free Yugoslavia, which was addressed by Terry Pettus. The report describes this group as a branch of the "Moscow-inspired American Slav Congress, operating in Seattle and vicinity. This organization has been active in support of the Communist Yugoslavia leader, Marshal Tito, and in condemnation of his rival, Mikhailovich."

BARNARD RUBIN is not listed, but there are more than 50 citations of Reid Robinson, the president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, with which the Tokyo dispatch associates this GI editor. These references, collected with great care during the long life of the Dies Committee, largely from documents and announcements published by the various groups, allege that Robinson was connected with many organizations of radical tinge front in unionism and politics.

One was the All-California Conference for Defense of Civil Rights and Aid to Labor's Prisoners. The committee says this conference was arranged by the Northern California District of the International Labor Defense "which," in the words of the report, "Attorney-General Biddle characterized as the legal arm of the Communist Party."

Another was the American Committee for the Protection of the Foreign Born of which the report says: "It was founded by the Communist Party to exploit racial divisions for revolutionary purposes. By protecting foreign Communists it has aided in enabling them to operate here."

That a man who would write acceptably for the publication of Reid Robinson's union could become a writer for an important GI paper invites attention to the disquieting potentialities of GI journalism.

RUBIN IS SAID to have remarked that there was no question of his loyalty when he was a machine-gunner on Luzon. That may be conceded, but the fact remains that all views were about alike during the shooting. Many radicals changed when the fighting ended and one of the purposes of some of them since then has been to place the GIs in conflict with the officers.

For some time during the war the Army and Navy both kept files on persons who had associated with the radical movement and refused them commissions. Under mysterious orders from Washington, the services were forced to abandon this policy and accept the oath of loyalty as proof of loyalty.

"Okay, Sir, Mr. Rice will see you now!"

Peron Leading In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 28 (AP)—Argentine strong man Col. Juan D. Peron led in both popular and electoral votes today as count of ballots in Sunday's presidential election moved into the third day with the first big provinces ready to start their tally. Peron was ahead in three provinces with an electoral vote of 32, while his opponent, Dr. Jose Tamborini, led in two provinces having 20 electoral votes. One hundred and eighty-nine electoral votes are needed to win. The popular vote in the five provinces stood at 22,439 for Peron and 21,809 for Tamborini.

Political observers expressed surprise that Peron had pared Tamborini's lead in San Luis and San Juan Provinces, in which Tamborini earlier had led almost 2 to 1.

Flanders Urges Congress Extend But Curb OPA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Ralph E. Flanders, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, representing the committee for economic development, told Congress today price controls should be extended for another year, but that business cannot live with OPA "in its present form" for that long.

Appearing before the House banking committee, now considering a bill to prolong OPA's life for another year, he said price control should be "terminated finally and completely, except for rent controls, in the spring of 1947."

"I urge both the temporary extension and the termination of price control," he explained. "These are equally important—the temporary extension to avoid inflation, the prompt and definite termination to restore free markets."

"I do not think that business can live with price control in its present form for another year. We must modify it so that it can live and be lived with. It should be liberalized and streamlined to reduce delays inequities and obstacles to production."

Flanders recommended these four changes in price control:

- 1—A system of self-pricing, subject to OPA review and veto;
- 2—Base prices on actual costs, not forecasts;
- 3—Seek out vigorously and positively the areas in which ceilings may be suspended;
- 4—Raise the standards for price relief to prevent profit squeezes which deter production and discriminate against enterprise.

is a private affair . . . but when the bride wears white everybody wants to see the gorgeous pageantry of her dress . . . and this one has gossamer drifts of marquisette. White lilacs, buddleia and cattleya orchid form the unusual bridal bouquet bouquet . . . The misty sheerness of the folds which fall in ruffled train from a slender, fitted bodice accents the delicate harmony of the finger-tip veil which CBS Actress Phyllis Crearo wears with poise and distinction.

Language of the Eyes

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

CENTURIES AGO . . . women learned the language of the eyes. They learned that this language was eloquent, arresting. Cleopatra learned this language well . . . and in order to enhance her look . . . give meaning to her expression . . . had made for her the cosmetics which would accomplish this. Since then . . . eye makeup has been developed so that properly applied . . . it is just a subtle hint . . . an accent.

Today we tell you about an entire series of delightful and effective aids to greater eye beauty . . . from the creams and lotions that help keep eyes clear and sparkling and free from surrounding wrinkles . . . to the eye makeup that gives them personality and emphasis. Learn to use eye makeup at any hour. Eye-shadow, for example . . . is not just for glamorous evenings. Artfully applied during the day, it will endow your eyes a delicate look of transparency. Mascara . . . tipped on our lashes . . . will not look like artifice but it will give them sweep and extra length. If your brows are too light or wispy . . . fill in with an eyebrow pencil . . . using short deft strokes and never drawing a single line.

Of course eye makeup requires special care to avoid a painted look. But once you get the knack of blending shadow on the lids in those interesting and intriguing blues, greens and violets . . . you'll come to appreciate, too, how those subtle tints do glorify the eyes.

Now for the eye itself. Just as faithfully as skin is cleansed morning and night . . . eyes should be cleansed. . . . Use them daily with a special eye lotion in the morning and at night . . . and see them acquire a new awakens, a clear sparkle. We couldn't live without a daily bathing of our eyes. We work our eyes overtime. And for a bit of stardust in your eyes . . . for that extra diamond-sparkle that says you're madly in love . . . drop in some eye drops to make them glisten and glisten.

If you have hollows around the eyes . . . use a special eye cream under and over the eyes to help round out the hollows. Pat in this special cream with fingertips from side to side . . . and always looking upward. Leave a little on overnight.

For the names of these eye items for the "look of beauty," phone the Beauty Dept., LIB-erty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

apple blossoms are no placating alternatives for sleet and snow . . . but isn't Warner star Joan Leslie a lovely eye-fu? Soon it will be spring . . . if the calendar doesn't decide to double-cross us . . . and we'll all be in the throes of that old feeling. The best way to greet and meet spring is with a smile in your eyes.

Get Back on Band Wagon With New Type Shortening

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

UNTIL SHORTENINGS are again plentiful in our markets, we must continue to use every jot of our small allotment with care and deliberation. If recent shortage has caused you to delete home-made muffins and cookies from your menus, get back on the band wagon with these up-to-the-minute recipes that use a different shortening—namely, nutritious, easy-to-get peanut butter.

Peanut butter, of course, is a shortening plus body-building protein, minerals and vitamins, plus extra special flavor.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/4 cup sugar, 1 egg, beaten
2 cups enriched flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. cinnamon

Cream together shortening and peanut butter. Add sugar and continue creaming until blended. Add egg and mix in thoroughly. Mix and sift remaining ingredients and add. Chill dough if it is too soft to handle. Roll 1/4 inch thick and cut with cookie cutter. Sprinkle tops with chopped peanuts. A hot oven of 400 deg. F. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, beaten
2 squares (16 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 cup sifted enriched flour
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt 1 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup chopped nuts

Cream shortening and peanut butter. Then add sugar, continuing to cream. Beat in eggs and chocolate. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and stir into first mixture with vanilla and nuts. Bake in greased 8-inch pan (square) for 20 to 25 minutes in moderate oven (350 deg. F.). Cut in any desired shape.

PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup peanut butter
1 egg, beaten 1 cup milk
1/4 cup raisins, chopped

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in peanut butter until mixture is of consistency of corn meal. Combine egg and milk and stir into first mixture with raisins, stirring only until all ingredients are moistened. Place in greased muffin pans. Bake in hot oven of 400 to 425 deg. F. for 15 minutes or until muffins are brown and done. Makes 12 2 1/2-inch muffins.

PEANUT BUTTER DATE MUFFINS

4 tbsp. peanut butter
1 tsp. shortening
1/4 cup sugar 1 egg
1 cup milk
1 1/2 cups enriched flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 cup dates, cut in pieces

Cream the peanut butter and shortening together and add the sugar. Add the beaten egg, milk and the flour, baking powder and salt which have been sifted together. Add the dates. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.).

Don't Spread Cold Germs!

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

YOU DON'T LIKE your sniffles and your snuffles and your sneezes and your coughs. Well, neither does anyone else! Therefore, do everything in your power to keep the enemy as much as possible on the home-ground.

You feel miserable. So, if you have the slightest consideration for other people, you'll take every precaution not to pass on your misery to other people, members of your family, friends, co-workers . . . and strangers, too. And you and I know that there are many considerate and sensible precautions you can take, if you'll be selfless enough to think about them.

The wisest thing for us to do is to stay quarantined in our room. If we can't do this . . . and it is a luxury in which most of us in this demanding busy world can't indulge for a "common cold" . . . at least we can avoid crowds as much as possible.

One thing you don't have to do, and never should do, is to take your cold germs to a party. Any hostess, no matter how important her party, would, believe me, infinitely prefer to have you break an engagement rather than have you come to her party "a-choo"ing and sniffing. In your misguided point of view you may regard yourself as a martyr in coming to the party—entering the room explaining, "I should be in bed. I'm sure I have a temperature, but I didn't think it fair to break my engagement with you at the last minute"—but the hostess and her guests will consider that they are the martyrs. Your cruel thoughtlessness means that they have to sit near you, talk with you, breathe the air laden with your germs. You'll be extremely unpopular at the party, and the day after you'll be an extremely unpopular memory.

When you have a cold, everyone with whom you come in contact is dependent on your "quality of mercy!"

When to Announce Your Engagement

I received my engagement ring at Christmas-time, and am to be married in May. I am not sure when I should announce my engagement. Should it be announced two weeks before the wedding or may I announce it any time now?

Now that you have your ring (which of course you must not wear in public until you are ready to announce your engagement) you may announce your engagement as soon as you wish. No reason to wait until two weeks before your wedding date.

Dress to Look Smart

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ONE OF OUR most famous designers remarked to me the other day that he is shocked at the failure of you women to use your heads in picking out your clothes.

He mentioned the way a short, dumpy woman will go straight like a homing pigeon for a dress or suit with a peplum, bertha and other things that all make her look shorter and dumper. "If she thought, she simply couldn't do it," he mumbled.

And there are other examples of this lack of thought throughout the whole female population. Why buy a handbag that is three-quarters frame and one-quarter handbag? It certainly isn't useful. Why wear stiff shoes if you can't walk gracefully in them? And so on. You girls are smart enough. It would work miracles if you would use your heads.

'Lost Weekend' Third Week at Met

"Lost Weekend" is doing sensational business in Boston as well as throughout the country. The Ray Milland starrer is going into its third smash week at the Metropolitan Theater. The New York film critics have already selected it as the year's best picture. More than that, it is being rumored as the choice for the 1948 Academy Award prize. Supporting the talented Milland are Jane Wyman, Philip Terry, Howard de Silva, Doris Dowling and Frank Faylen. The arresting victim depicts five days in the life of an alcoholic. It is an adaptation from the best-selling novel of Charles Jackson.

The companion picture is "How Do You Do?" This is a comedy with Bert Gordon and Harry Von Zell.

"Masquerade in Mexico," which teams Dorothy Lamour and Arturo de Cordova once again in a romantic comedy, is now un-reeling on the Paramount and Fenway screens today. Importantly featured are Ann Dvorak and Patric Knowles both of whom have absented themselves from the screen in the interests of their mother country, England, until the war's end.

Under Mitchell Leisen's direction, "Masquerade in Mexico" is said to move swiftly and amusingly.

Jack Benny Comedy On Laffmovie Screen

The Jack Benny-starring comedy, "Buck Benny Rides Again," is presently being revived on the Laffmovie screen. Abetting Benny in the laugh department are Eddie Rochester Anderson and the gravel-throated Andy Devine.

Other current Laffmovie items are "Ham and Yeggs," with El Brendel and the Three Stooges; Walt Disney's cartoon short, "Private Pluto"; a Little Lulu cartoon, "Magica-Lulu," and "Baseball Bugs."

Daily menus and recipes by Martha Lee a regular feature in the Boston American.

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

"Black Market Babies," a timely film produced by Monogram, will shock many who see it at the Tremont and Old South theaters, where it opened yesterday.

From a production point of view, this picture is far superior to the usual "expose" film; Ralph Morgan and Kane Richmond give top-notch performances, and George Wallace Sayre has written an excellent script.

The most important thing about it, however, is that it calls to the attention of the public the newest and vilest racket, that of selling babies for adoption. The baby racket has apparently been flourishing for some time, but only recently, through newspaper stories, has its sordid operation been exposed.

In the film, Ralph Morgan portrays a doctor who gets into the power of certain underworld characters and who becomes their "front" and accomplice in running a swanky . . . and quite legal, unfortunately . . . maternity hospital.

Here young women have their unwanted babies and sign away all rights to them. Then the babies are turned over to couples who want a baby but for some reason are not acceptable to the stricter state authorities as foster parents.

Kane Richmond, a young actor who should go far, is excellent as the conscience-stricken ex-gangster who runs the outfit and is caught up with only when his greed gets the better of his caninens.

Jayne Hazzard, Teala Loring and

DANNY O'NEIL, nationally famous radio tenor, who will make his local concert debut at Symphony Hall on St. Patrick's Day night.

Marjorie Hoshelle are convincing in featured roles, and George Meeker is the perfect "mouthpiece."

The only disconcerting thing about the film is that it may suggest to some unfortunate and frantic girls an easy way out of disgrace and responsibility.

Movies of Cardinals at Loew's

First newsreel pictures from Rome showing the elevation of 32 new cardinals by Pope Pius XII are featured in MGM's News of the Day, which will begin its showing today at Loew's State and Orpheum.

The majestic spectacle, in which Cardinal Spellman and a number of American prelates were honored, was filmed inside historic St. Peter's in Rome. It climaxes the special coverage News of the Day has provided from the time that the American cardinals designate left this country en route to Italy.

The new issue of News of the Day will be shown in addition to Loew's twin attraction, "The Harvey Girls."

1947 Braves Will Play Ten Games in Paris

By JACK CONWAY

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 28.—The 1947 Braves will fly to Paris in March for ten exhibition games, and return to Boston in time for their city series with the Red Sox.

Lou Perini

Owners Louis Perini and Guido Rugo revealed to this writer, Joe Maney, the third owner, is in accord with this baseball innovation.

Perini has his own private plane, and hops around the country in it like most folks do in the family buggy. During the war, Perini built thousands of roads in Army camps in all parts of the United States, and he resorted to air travel to keep up with his expanding business.

"We will take along enough players to make up two teams," said Perini. "We would only take a day going to Paris and another day returning. Even if we played ten games, we could complete our tour inside of two weeks."

"We would not go abroad until late in March of 1947, when our team would be in the best possible physical condition following five weeks of training in Florida. I think a European tour would do much to create interest in baseball, while it would give Boston and the Braves international publicity."

Rugo, who is here with Perini, was enthusiastic about the idea. "The three little steam shovels, Perini, Maney and Rugo, do not intend to follow the conventional old roads that have been used for so many years in baseball. We are going to build new roads, and one of them leads to Paris," he said.

Boston sports leaders are certainly air minded, and wish to blaze new trails. Only recently Walter Brown, boss of the Garden Arena combination, returned to Boston after a hop to London. It is Brown's plan to have the Olympics and other American hockey teams play in England, and to bring four English hockey clubs to America.

Air travel has made what was once a long, tedious trip just a taxi jump.

When Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt came to Suffolk Downs to see one of his horses run, he told me he made the trip by air from La Guardia Field to the East Boston Airport faster than he did the taxi ride from the Copley Plaza Hotel to the East Boston track.

New Owners Spenders

Perini, Rugo and Maney spend money as freely as the public pours its cash into mutual windows at race tracks. There is not any ball club that travels on a more luxurious scale than the Braves. Gone are days when the Tribe shopped around for moderate priced players in the wood shed and eat. The three little steam shovels insist on the best in everything for their ball club.

The night of the birthday party for Mel Webb at Fort Lauderdale, the new owners of the Braves went all out in putting on a gala event. The party ended up with a dozen waiters parading into the private dining room carrying trays loaded with champagne.

Earlier Perini had noticed the absence of champagne from the party. He called in the head waiter. "We want champagne for this party," said Perini.

"Champagne is very expensive," replied the head waiter. "I am not interested in expense," asserted Perini. "Get the best champagne you have in the hotel, and if you can't get enough of it, go out and buy it regardless of price."

The startled head waiter did as instructed. Billy Southworth told me that the three little owners are the same when it comes to buying ball players.

"Let us know who you think will help the Braves win a pennant, and we'll try to get you what you want," they have told me repeatedly," said Southworth.

"I now have a pretty good idea of what the Braves lack, and I am now going to spend some of the money that has been placed at my disposal."

Southworth Is Boss

Southworth is in complete charge of the ball players. His decisions are final. This is the only condition under which the greatest manager in baseball would take the job with the Braves.

John Quinn has the same authority as far as the front office and the farm clubs are concerned. The three little steam shovels produce the money and the enthusiasm to inspire the Braves. The players know that if they make good they will receive top salaries. If the Braves can develop a Ted Williams or a Joe DiMaggio, he too, will receive a record salary.

If you visit the Braves' camp, you will find New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and other outside sports writers sitting in with Southworth, Perini and Rugo. Such attention is usually reserved for world's champions, but the men who write the baseball news seem to feel that things are picking up with the Braves, and they wish to be around at the laying of the cornerstone for this new baseball monument of success.

Snuffy Settles For $5000 Raise

CRESTWOOD, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—George (Snuffy) Starnweiss, Yankee second baseman last year and the American League's leading hitter, said today he had reached an agreement with the club and would leave as soon as possible for Florida.

Starnweiss had been at odds with the Yankee management over his 1946 salary for a month. He was reported asking a $5000 increase over his rumored 1945 salary of $16,000. His new pact is believed to call for $20,000.

The Yankee infielder said the compromise was reached in New York city in a conference with George W. Woych, general manager of the Yanks, and that he would sign the contract as soon as he saw Larry MacPhail, president of the club, in Florida.

Starnweiss hoped to leave today for the South.

athletes admonished the SAA to think of the consequences if the stars now under investigation should be "barred by regulation which had no basis in the generally accepted view of justice." The letter added, however, it may be "necessary to limit what the more prominent athletes receive."

Tost Fireball Report Lifts Braves Hopes

By BILL GRIMES

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 28.—Within a fortnight Manager Billy Southworth hopes to have some first-hand information on whether or not Lou Tost developed a fireball while in the Navy.

When he returned from the Pacific, Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, went off the deep end that Tost was one of the best left hand pitchers he saw during the war years. He stressed the fact that Tost was a real fireball hurler. Johnny Pesky, Red Sox shortstop, reiterated Dickey's statements, and went into great detail to explain his stand.

During the 1941 season, Bob Quinn sent Pat Monahan, Braves scout, to the Coast to look at Tost and his Bithorn, who were training with Hollywood. Monahan passed up Bithorn, who was grabbed by the Chicago Cubs, and recommended Tost.

Tost reported to Casey Stengel at Sanford, Fla., in the spring of '42. There were three left handers in camp that year, Art Johnson, Bill Donovan and Tost. Johnson's arm went dead, and Donovan, lacking a fast ball, wasn't major league material. So Tost was retained. He got off to a flying start winning seven or eight games during the first three months of the campaign. Tost's ten wins and ten defeats was the best showing by any of the Braves' hurlers that year. But when his record of pitching 300 ball was broken down, it showed that in eight of his ten victories he had had to be replaced in order to protect the Braves' leads.

Tost has been here only three days. And, as he hadn't done any pitching since he was in the service, he has been taking things easy. Lou takes his turn on the mound every day, but hasn't attempted to put much on any pitch. However, on the few occasions, he has cut loose with a little on the ball and seems quicker.

Tost isn't a conversationalist. In fact, he's very reticent and tough to interview. "Lou, did anyone change your delivery while you were in the service?" I asked.

"No." "Well, how do you account for Dickey coming out with the statement that you were a fire ball pitcher out in the islands?" "I don't know, unless it was that I weighed 205 pounds. We didn't have anything to do, so we ate about 15 times a day."

"What are you weighing now?" "185."

"How much do you weigh in 1942?" "170."

"Do you figure that the extra 35 pounds gave you a fast ball?" "I don't know, I might have more snap in my pitches."

And, that was all that came out of the interview. So, from now on, I'm restricting interviews to right-handers.

But, seriously, Tost looks like he might do it. He has a long, loose, sweeping delivery and pose. From behind the batting cage, his pitches appear to jump at the hitters.

MORT COOPER
Having Best Spring

Boss Sees Mort Better Than Ever

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 28.—The Braves are confident that it will not require much urging to get "Whitey" Wietelmann to sign his 1946 contract.

"Whitey" is expected here today. Max West is on the mound. His knee is back to normal and has shaken off a case of ptomaine poisoning. . . . "Jakes" and "Johns" play the third game of the intra-squad series this afternoon. . . . Don Hendrickson and Johnny Sam will be the starting pitchers but Earl Ried, Johnny Hutchings, Al Treichel and Tim Troner will see mound duty. . . . Roger Wright, Ed's young brother, left today for Ft. Myers where the Louisville club is training. . . . Jim Singleton told John Quinn, via phone, that he's been working out at Ogden, Utah. . . . Billy Southworth believes that Mort Cooper is further advanced than he ever was in the spring while with the Cards. . . . The latest X-rays taken of Al Javery's teeth were negative. . . . George Hockett, former Red Sox southpaw pitcher, is a member of the local police force. . . . Otis "Doc" Crandall, a Giant during the regime of John McGraw, is tending bar on the main stem. . . . Gene Patton's brother, Gerald, who has been in the Navy for four years is expected to report to Southworth within a few days. . . . Hughie Wise, one of the best minor league executives in the game, will manage the Pawtucket club in the New England League. . . . Pres. Louis Perini's plane arrived yesterday. . . . Billy Sullivan, director of public relations, is homebound bound. GRIMES.

DODGER SIGNS

SANFORD, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Catcher Herman Franks signed his 1946 Brooklyn Dodger baseball contract today.

Venezuela, reportedly en route to the United States to join the White Sox, and decided to remain. Ernesto Carmona, manager of the Mexico City Club, meanwhile communicated with another Venezuelan, Dumbo Fernandez, asking him to come here instead of joining Brooklyn. Carmona said Fernandez recently signed a contract with him.

Carmona reported the following have signed to play in the circuit: Fernin Guerra of the Senators; Rene Monteagudo, Phillies; Natalia Jimenez, who was to report to Indianapolis; Roland Gladu, Montreal; and Julio Acosta, Milwaukee.

Previously announced as signed were Danny Gandella, Giants, already here; Adrian Zabala, Giants; Napoleon Reyes, Giants; Luis Olmo, Dodgers; Robert Estrella, Athletics; and Adolfo Lopez, Giants, as manager.

Former major leaguers who played here last year and expected back are: Tomas De La Cruz, Reds; Roberto Ortiz, Senators; Chilo Gomez, Senators, and Chico Hernandez, Cubs.

League officials and club owners will meet next week to distribute the players among the teams. According to league regulations, this is done to "balance" the lineups.

Rickey Urges Life Ban For League Jumpers

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today urged Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler to take strong action against major league players who jump from organized baseball to the Mexican League, according to the Associated Press. Rickey did not mention any names, but it is likely he was fuming over the loss of Luis Olmo, hard-hitting outfielder, who sent back his Dodger contract unsigned and announced he would play in the Mexican circuit.

"Organized baseball should adopt a policy in regard to players who jump their contracts," Rickey declared at the Dodgers' training camp in Sanford, Fla.

"Our contracts are valid and players who disregard them should be Mexican players for the rest of their lives. It would not do to have one major league club take back players who jumped and other clubs refusing to do so."

Meantime, in an interview at Tampa, Chandler took a blast at colleges who have proposed that their players be left alone by big league scouts until they graduate.

"Only about one-third of the colleges play baseball," Chandler pointed out. "If they want to go along with their proposals they should give baseball a bigger place in their sports picture and not let other sports encroach on the game."

Griffith Day!

HAVANA, Feb. 28 (AP)—March 10 will be "Clark Griffith" Day in Havana. The Cuban sports commission said the veteran owner of the Washington Senators will receive a gold medal in recognition of his assistance to Cuban ballplayers in organized baseball.

I'm Hitting Better Than Ever Says Ted

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 28 — Charlie Wagner was up before roomie Ted Williams. He raised the curtains, peered outside, and said: "Ted, it's blowing a gale." "Yes," countered the Red Sox slugger, "and I'll bet it's blowing in." He meant in from the fences, of course, because his every thought is on hitting.

He has yet to loft one over the far-flung right field fence here and it irks him "if that win only would die down, I'd have five over by this time," he said. "But," he added as he had his legs rubbed by trainer Win Green, "I feel stronger than ever and really believe I'm hitting the ball farther than I did in '42" (his last year in organized ball).

He weighed 178 when he took his Navy physical in '42, says he weighs "about 192" stripped now, though he looks 200. He's somewhat heavier around the chest and shoulders than the Williams who led the league in batting in '41 and '42 but otherwise he looks very much the same, especially at bat. He retains the wrist snap and co-ordination that made him the greatest of present-day sluggers.

"Why not?" he challenged. "I spent my lifetime learning how to hit. I shouldn't forget how in a couple of years."

He returned to his locker, started cutting his toe-nails and said: "Two toes on my left foot are sore. Shoes must be too tight. But otherwise my feet are all right." (Campbell, Blair, Woods, Harris have so many foot blisters they can barely walk.) "My legs are sore, though," he added.

Then off to his hitting again went Ted.

"Say, wouldn't it be great if I hit this spring as I did in '41? I got off to a good start that year and wound up, 406. The next year I was under .300 until mid-season and wound up .356. Wonder what I really hit the last half of that '42 season?"

He had more on his mind than hitting in the spring of '42. There was his celebrated deferment case ("I never asked for it"). There were his fights with the left field fans in Boston. But once he enlisted at 150 Causeway st., he started to hit and never stopped hitting until the season ended.

He'll hit this season. The war is ended. He has Wagner for a roomie again. And he starts hitting before May as these early days here seem to indicate he will, he'll join hall-of-fame's Cobb and Sisler as the only repeat .400 hitters in A. L. history.

AILING ... Eddie Pellagrini, Earl Johnson missed mid-week practice. Pelly has a severe head and chest cold. Johnson is feeling the effects of his long commute.

Bruins Move Up In Torrid Race

The Montreal Canadiens held on to their slim lead in the National League standings today despite a 5-3 defeat suffered at the hands of the Bruins last night. As a result, the Bruins moved up and are now only three points back of the pace-setting Canadiens.

The game was rough and was played at Montreal before a capacity crowd of 12,000. The Bruins tallied two goals in 16 seconds after Maurice Richard was sitting out a roughing penalty.

In the other National League game the lowly New York Rangers scored a 6-to-4 victory at Toronto over the Maple Leafs. Edgar Laprade scored three goals for the Rangers. The defeated spell virtual doom to Toronto's chances of entering the playoffs.

The Rangers will play Detroit tonight.
